

Abstract

A plastic food container has a body and a removable lid. In a closed position, the lid forms a watertight seal to contain food or liquids. The lid is easily removed in a “pop-open” fashion using two fingers of one hand to squeeze outwardly-protruding tabs. Upon squeezing, the tabs operate as levers to open the lid.